

HEADNOTE

“Application under R. 262A RoP by the claimants for a confidentiality order regarding financial information provided with their reply to an Application under R. 158 RoP. Application granted. Access to confidential information limited to counsel only with the consent of the parties.”

COURT

Local Division in The Hague

PROCEEDINGS

Procedural order

PATENT

EP2137782

Device and method for converting light energy into electrical energy

KEYWORDS

R.262A confidentiality

Access limited to counsel

Rule 262A

Protection of Confidential Information

SUMMARY

The Local Division in The Hague issued a procedural order. The patent at issue relates to a device and method for converting light energy into electrical energy. According to the headnotes of the decision, the claimants sought a confidentiality order to protect financial information they had submitted in response to an earlier procedural application. The court granted this request and restricted access to the confidential financial data to legal counsel only, provided that all parties involved consented to such access.